THE "CLIP" SHEET

Those learned servants at the University of California keep me in a constant turmoil with the discoveries they pass on in their "clip" sheet. For those not familiar with newspaper parlance it may not be amiss to explain that a "clip" sheet is a printed page sent to editors from which they can scissor the items contained therein and thus help fill the vacant columns when news is scarce, or the advertiser is taking a holiday.

MAYBE I'M DUMB
There is no intention to belittle the "clip" sheet or what it contains. Perhaps my mental density is the answer, but I am willing to confess that my head "is all in a whirl" like I had been doing a dervish dance after I peruse the gems of wisdom.

NATIONAL UPSETS

The latest sheet on my desk upsets many of my preconceived notions of things in general and in particular. I have seen through the years clinging tenaciously to certain beliefs, founded to some extent on experience, and axioms which I accepted as truth. One of them was that we should separate the wheat from the chaff. From my limited observation of farming I naturally concluded that was the right and proper thing to do, and I also figured that the principle applied also to humanity imprisonment of lawbreakers and putting under restraint those who by reason of mental deficiencies were a menace to society.

From the material aspect, anyway, a large crimp has been put into my complacency, for the doctors now come to the front and center and announce that while wheat may be very necessary in sustaining human life, chaff and straw have become very important factors for the same purpose. The scientific explanation is too complicated and the terms employed impel me to rush to the medicine closet for a dose of aspirin, but I gather that from what was always considered useless substance.

Tag! You're It; City Clerk Is All Burned Up

Even city clerks get "burned" when tagged for parking over time. At least City Clerk Fred J. Prosser, of El Cerrito is supposed to be in that mood.

It seems that the El Cerrito police are out on a campaign against illegally parked cars. Ordered to enforce the city ordinances governing the matter, Police Chief R. R. Cheek and his men are going about issuing tags good for $2 in police court.

On Friday, it seems, Chief Cheek saw a car parked at San Pablo avenue near Fairmount avenue. After waiting around a bit, the chief dragged out his tag book and tagged the car for parking overtime.

The vehicle was the personal property of City Clerk Fred Prosser, yesterday was quoted as being rather irate over the matter, declaring that he was an official city business and the chief had no business tagging his car. In fact, Prosser is quoted as being determined to take the matter up to the superior court before a jury to see whether or not Chief Cheek can make the tag "stick."

When informed of the pending local battle, Chief Cheek declared yesterday that as far as he knew there was nothing in the city ordinance forbidding him from tagging a city clerk's car when it was parked overtime.

Daring Ace Saves Lives In Air Crash

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—UP—The cool daring of Dick Field, Skyways, Inc. pilot, and his skill with a lasso saved four lives at a municipal airport late today when a wheel of Field's plane became dislodged in midair and prevented a landing.

Field had taken three passengers aloft in a cabin ship when a shackle strap holding a landing gear leg became unfastened. The left wheel dangled a dizzy from its braces.

Field flew aimlessly about. Excitement grew at the airport as low. Emergency crews prepared for a crash.

Soon terrified onlookers saw Field crawl out on the wing, holding a coil of rope. Hanging on grimly he improvised a lasso, caught the wheel after a few false trials, and lashed it into place. He then returned to the controls and approaching the landing field, he made a soft descent. The dangled wheel held and the passengers alighted in safety.

One of the three passengers was Don Long, 22, a mechanic for Skyways, Inc. He held the controls steadily during Field's perilous repairs.

The other passengers were Miss Estelle Carroll, 14, and Jack Baldwin, 19, both of East Cleveland.

Missing Tuna Boats Freed By Mexicans

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 17.—UP—Fifteen American tuna fishing boats were released tonight after being detained, reportedly by Mexican gunboats, off Baja California.

Owners of the clippers, puzzled over the Mexican officials' act, delayed taking possible action until the boats return with their cargoes several days from now.

The boats, reported "missing" since Wednesday when their radios were cut out, were said to have been held up for license and cargo inspection in Magdalena Bay. They were conveyed to Mazatlan on the mainland.

ETHIOPIANS TO MOBILIZE FOR WARFARE

ASISANIA, Italy, Aug. 17.—UP—Premier Mussolini today announced in a speech that his intention was to create a Fascist empire.

Addressing 12,000 Fascists who are studying for their careers tomorrow and Sunday, he said:

"We are, therefore, about to achieve a Fascist empire. I know you will do your duty with iron discipline and will not become to make sacrifices until an aim has been achieved."

The troops were in heavy marching order, with colonial berets, light colonial uniforms and light boots. Mussolini was heartily cheered by the soldiers as he left the Giaraffino to inspect other units.

He came from Rome in his own automobile, which he drove at times at 80 miles an hour. En route he inspected other units at Sulmona, Lombrano and Pellerano.

Mussolini To Fly To Africa To Direct War

LONDON, Aug. 17.—UP—Premier Benito Mussolini may fly to East Africa shortly after the war between Italy and Ethiopia begins, and personally direct his troops to victory on behalf of an enlarged Italian empire, sources close to the British war office said tonight.

British experts believe the war is inevitable, probably late in September or early in October. Within 24 hours after the Italian troops on the Ethiopian frontier are given the command of "forward, march," they believe the pioneer Italian motorized detachments will have occupied Addis, 19 miles from the border, to advance the battle front, which Ethiopia inflicted on the Italian forces in that town 46 years ago—when more than 10,000 on the Italian side were killed, wounded or captured.

Man Is Foiled In Suicide Try

GILROY, Aug. 17.—Death again laughed at Daniel Della Santa, 45, today. Last November Santa desired to end his life. He bought a revolver, drove out into the woods, fired several shots into the air to make sure the gun was operating right, then put a bullet into his head. Passersby found him, took him to a hospital and he recovered.

Yesterday Santa leaped into the path of a Southern Pacific train at Lewis street crossing. He was struck and sent whirling from the right of way. Friction burns, cut knees and shock were his total injuries. Cannery workers saw his action and took him to the Wheeler hospital. But Santa says he will try again.

Solons Rebel To Hold Up Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—UP—The adjournment of Congress today was held up by a revolt among senators demanding action on a variety of special projects.

A White House conference was called for tomorrow night so that President Roosevelt and his tenacious of the Capitol could decide which measures should be introduced and which should be dropped. The adjournment was postponed until after the conference.

GUESSES MADE

Senate Democratic leader Joseph T. Robinson, before departing for an overnight trip into the country, said he still thought Congress could adjourn by next Thursday.

Speaker Joseph W. Coughlin thought "about next Saturday" was a better guess.

Despite a revelation that Vice President John N. Garner was attempting quickly to break the deadlock over the public utility bill, Robinson said he believed the measure, now in conference, would not be enacted into law this session.

FAILURE SEEN

"Frankly," he said, "I think that conference will fail."

Members of the Senate silver bloc threatened trouble if the bill, on which conferences began tonight, was reported back to the Senate without the McGarran amendment.

The amendment, providing for repeal of the licensing tax, was (Continued on Page 8)

EL CERRITO NEWS

DIVINE GIVES TALK ON TOWNSEND PLAN

Rev. Robert Rehkuhl of Oakland, speaking before the El Cerrito Townsend Club at Schwab's hall Friday evening, declared that the people of America are facing a crisis and that the Townsend Plan is "the greatest issue before the people since the emancipation of the black man, for it means nothing more or less than the emancipation of the white man."

Looking over the well-filled hall he noted the presence in the audience of several young men of college age and told them that the young people will have to solve this social tangle when most of their elders are no more.

He then launched with fiery vigor into his subject, the Townsend challenge and the Townsend answer, and declared that mankind has yet to achieve any world-wide unity and power; that "our plenty overwhelms us, and we do not know how to distribute the abundance our hands have produced."

"Man," he said, "is today a challenged animal, and he will either have to answer that challenge successfully or be overwhelmed by the machine that has become his master instead of his servant."

Rev. Rehkuhl pointed out that the 600,000 boys now in CCC camps are rapidly becoming a revolutionary force and will be dangerous unless something is done to give them a chance for normal life. He quoted Hugo Long in the effect that "we have nothing more for which we should ask the Lord. He has already allowed this land to have too much of everything that man may want," and gave a logical conclusion to the underlying causes of our social plight and the way that the Townsend Plan, to his way of thinking, would solve our problems.

The president of the club, W.

S. Downing, presided at the meeting. Charles Ballison and Frank Hughes furnished good music and the ladies served plentiful cake and coffee upon the conclusion of the speech.

Those on the serving committee were Mrs. P. E. Bailey, Mrs. Frank Hughes and Mrs. Hulda Holmquist. It was announced by the chair that 33 members of the El Cerrito club would attend the Townsend celebration in Philadelphia today where Dr. Townsend will speak.

AMBITION PLANS FOR CITY'S FUTURE

Well, folks, we can congratulate ourselves on our planning commission. Among the new things El Cerrito is to have some day in the not far-distant future, if the plans work out, are a new library, a new high school, with a recreational park around it of good proportion, adequate transportation, and other things that will put El Cerrito on the map. It was brought out at Thursday's meeting of the commission that population from the ferry side of the bay is rapidly moving now into East Oakland, Alameda and even in the hills out through the mountains. There is a building here and there. This, then, is El Cerrito. It is today a busy, if we want to get anywhere, is now. What we need is a good active business, a location to back up the commercial and get things done. We need it badly and we need it now.

Realism Achieved

At the top, left, is a close-up of diorama manufacture as carried out in the making of the Ford Exposition building diorama. W. F. Wagner is shown carefully measuring a part of the Ford model V-8 included in the diorama in the rotunda of the building at Balboa Park, San Diego. Note the Japanese figures fastened to the seat of the car. Upper, right, diorama in the Ford Exposition building depicts the mining of sillimanite, high above the clouds. An unusual effect is obtained by a model made of wood and a drill, parts of which are metal and parts wood finished to resemble metal. The large photograph directly above is of the finished Japanese diorama after its placing in the Ford Exposition building. The car on which Mr. Wagner is shown working is the upper photograph is completed and in the diorama is placed in the left foreground.

The making of dioramas is an art in itself, according to Henri Marchand, of the Diorama Corporation of America, who supervised the making of models and the painting of dioramas for the Ford Exposition Building, Balboa Park, San Diego. From 25 to 30 men worked at the task of diorama making for three months prior to the completion of the Ford Building.

The first step in assembling a diorama is the preparation of a sketch showing the size, color and shape of the proposed painting. Dioramas are made in a dark room with only the lights which will be installed in the back of the back, is painted according to the design. When this is done, the figures in the foreground are made in full relief and set in place. From this state on the process is one of blending colors and figures between the intervening spaces so the illusion of distance and full perspective is obtained. Cardboard models are used for size and contour. The trial and error system results in perfect blending of colors and true perspective. Dioramas are made in a dark room with only the lights which will be installed in the back of the models illuminating the work as it progresses. This is done to assure harmonious color and outline blending. The diorama workers are then given the same light advantage as is given persons who see the completed work.

So realistic are the dioramas in the rotunda of the Ford Exposition Building that in one, depicting the mining of zinc lead, a piece of zinc lead is cleverly included in the foreground so perfectly that it cannot be picked out from the rest of the model which is made of wood and plaster to resemble the ore.

What's This?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Congress tonight passed a law that drafted instruction for a swift drive to collect more than 200 in functions which have reduced AAA proceeds to collection by 75 per cent.

As soon as President Roosevelt signs the AAA amendment bill, probably next week, the government will ask Federal judges to dismiss the injunctions on the grounds that there no longer will be any valid reason for restraining the tax collections.

Effect of the injunction was shown by the fact that the total of AAA collections for the first 10 months of 1934 was only $15,000,000 in AAA taxes, compared with $45,000,000 in that period last year.

Two Boys, Two Girls Are Held In Car Thefts
 SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Two men and two girls all under 22 years of age were in custody here tonight, facing Federal and possible municipal charges involving the theft of automobiles.

First reports indicated that the youths might be involved in the fatal shooting of a police officer in Dunsmuir, Calif., several weeks ago, but Salt Lake police stated tonight that they are convinced there is no connection.

The four were arrested here last night after allegedly stealing three cars in three days. They gave their names as Leslie Stinson, alias Roy Johnson, 21, Los Angeles; Ralph Brennan, 20, New York; Margaret Schultz, 18, San Fernando, Calif.; and Dorothy Strain, 13, Sepulveda, Calif.

FILM PLAYERS SEPARATE
 HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Dorothy Lee, screen singer, today was en route to Chicago and the first of another Hollywood "trial separation." Married to Marshall Buford, former University of Southern California football player, Miss Lee said she was "taking a little trip to avoid a permanent separation."

 SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—The state of California tonight announced a program to provide a two months' start in employing the large group.

Announcement of the program, he said, will depend upon the speed with which the work programs from the San Francisco and Los Angeles county have population centers are approved by the government.

SECRET SERVICE WORK TOLD IN FOX PICTURE

Modern day today's new picture headlines and thrilling in their graphic accounts of the war of the government on organized crime. "Public Enemy Number One" is a story of the work of the secret service which opens at the Fox theatre today on a double program with "Love Taboo" a picture of the kind of story ever written by Homer Lane.

Telling the pursuit of a notorious public enemy, the work of the secret service is shown in a picture which is a masterpiece of the federal agencies. The story is told in a way which is both dramatic and educational. The picture is a masterpiece of the federal agencies. The story is told in a way which is both dramatic and educational.

Charles Morris takes the role of the federal agent following the trail of the law to stamp out crime. Jean Arthur, Lionel Barrymore, Joseph Cotton, Lewis Stone and Paul Kelly are featured in a cast which includes Paul Hild, George E. Stone, Cora Sue Collins, Lawrence Wheat and many more.

Alcey Brady has the title role in "Love Taboo" a comedy which tells the story of a cook in a railroad construction camp who falls for a fortune teller and a title and is received in a fashionable Long Island home. How she helps along a romance and eventually a comic situation is sketched in the picture of a couple who direct constant attention to the high handedness of their respective families, is a comedy in itself.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17. UP—Ask Mary Astor what pains her the most in motion pictures and she will promptly respond: "Playing a misunderstood wife or the other woman, or an ex delinquent."

Miss Astor has been in the flicks for more years than most stars, so she has had ample time to try out her roles. Almost without exception, she has been cast as one of those three "types." Now, she feels competent to undergo a change, to become a comedienne.

"When I first entered pictures," she said, "I wasn't ready for comedy. Light comedy is not and it is harder to play than straight drama. A Hugh Herbert is harder to find than a Clark Gable."

"Each actress must serve her apprenticeship in serious roles. Then, if comedy suits her, she should become a comedienne. I had my first taste of comedy in 'Convention City.' Still, I wasn't ready. I think I am now, after seeing myself in 'Three Miss Gals'."

"The latter picture, she believes, marked her metamorphosis from drama to comedy. On the screen, Miss Astor is unlike the parts she has played so often. She has a natural wit that lends her to the role. One of her favorite people is Dorothy Parker because the writer never takes her too seriously.

"I don't believe in being too serious about anything," remarked the actress.

Still, Miss Astor has plenty of room for comedienne in Hollywood. She thinks Betty Davis, Jean Blondell, Marion Davies, Glenda Farrell and Verne Treadwell are great laugh-getters, but believes Zasu Pitts could better do dramatic roles than comedy.

Methodists To Take Vote On Plan Of Merger

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 17. UP. Methodist churches today organized a poll among 5,000 members of their congregations for ratification of a merger bringing together three laic branches of the church after 91 years.

The three groups—Methodist Episcopal, Methodist South, and Methodist Protestant—will merge in the world, hence Protestant organization if the new plan is ratified.

It will be six years, however, before the plan can be approved by members of all conferences. The new united church would be called simply the Methodist Church.

The 50 groups in conference here set up a proposal whereby five jurisdictional conferences would be laid out geographically with a sixth for Negro churches. Negro churches now a part of white conferences will remain.

Miss Henrietta E. Cushman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cushman, 649 Eighth street, became the bride of Edward A. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Miller, 414 South Twenty-first street, at Grace Lutheran church on Friday evening.

Rev. O. A. Awerkamp read the ceremony. Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Anne Anderson, co-minister of Miller, with Miss Alice Gandella as accompanist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by her sister Miss Emma Cushman, as maid of honor and Miss Ruth Hayes as bridesmaid. Herbert Miller was best man for his brother.

A reception attended by forty guests was held in the Cushman home. A buffet supper was served and a large wedding cake cut by the bride. Upon their return from a ten days' honeymoon at Yosemite, the newlyweds will be at home at 123 Eleventh street.

Both young people are prominent in young people's activities at Grace Lutheran church. Both are graduates of Richmond Union high school, the bride receiving her diploma in June of this year.

Miller is employed as an electrician with the Western Electric company in Emeryville, and is a brother of Woodrow Miller, whose marriage to Miss Louise Bowen took place a week ago.

YOUR HEALTH

Children With Weak Hearts Arc Among Most Pathetic Cases

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

IT ISN'T often one comes upon a really new idea. When the new idea is a good thing for a large number of people it is a real find. All this celebrating of National days comes to very little unless something of definite value can be developed from the observance. At Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., this year's National Child Health Day, May 1, was set to be marked by a significant movement originating at Irvington House.

This is an institution established years ago for needy children with heart ailments. The press notices stated that several grand-children of the founders would be among the charter members of a new sort of a club, to be called the Healthy Hearts Club of Irvington House.

The fee was placed at a dollar, and the fund was to be used to enlarge and maintain the facilities of Irvington House. A group of young nations organized the club and announced their goal as the enrollment of every healthy boy and girl in the country at an annual contribution of one dollar. In this new movement toward the conservation of our youth.

There is perhaps no more pathetic group than the child "cardiacs," or "heart cripples," as they are called. They may be ever so beautiful of face and perfect of form, but the main-spring of existence for them simply won't work.

No Play for Them

No hop-scotch, no tag, no "ole swimmin' hole" for them. Only by the most careful guarding of their strength can they have any part in the normal child life about them. Irvington House receives its population from twenty-eight New York City and Westchester County Hospitals. There is no distinction of race, creed, or color.

Many of these handicapped children are in actual need of nourishment, of fresh air, and sunshine, and these must be augmented by supervised rest. The effort of prime importance is to teach them how to live within the restrictions that their disability has already set for them. This must be a project quite apart from the care of those who visit the clinic intermittently.

Irvington House has made much progress in the fifteen years since its founding as a vacation cottage experiment. It would be the largest institution for cardiac children in the country if its full capacity could be used. The pressing need at this point is to find funds to extend scientific research in this field and particularly to provide convalescent accommodations for the increasing numbers of young children who need guidance and cheer if life is ever to mean anything to them.

Usually Rheumatic Fever

It has only been a brief fifteen years since heed was given to the large number of children who have defective hearts. Some form of rheumatic fever is usually at the bottom of the heart lesions of youth, and New York's Department of Health reports about 12,000 children with impaired hearts in the elementary schools of that city.

Throughout the country more than a million people are listed on the health records as the victims of rheumatic heart trouble. The forerunner of Irvington House, as a convalescent home for cardiac children, was at Mineola, Long Island, and was designed to continue medical supervision during the summers for the pupils attending the special cardiac classes in the public schools.

The first house at Irvington was destroyed by fire. A new Irvington House was planned in cooperation with prominent heart specialists, members of the New York Heart Association, who now direct the medical program. The research department includes the study of the effect of medicine, diet, sunlight, exercise, and various therapeutic procedures. Tomorrow we shall discuss some of the things that can be done for these thwarted little ones.

Short Cuts

The flavor of potato salad is greatly enhanced by the addition of bits of cooked bacon or ham.

Do not use silk thread for mending kid gloves, it is too sharp and tears the leather as you sew. Cotton thread has a softer body to it, and is recommended for this purpose.

Profiles for Today

Gen. Westover Succeeds Gen. Foulis

By TALBOT LAKE

THE troubles of Major Gen. Benjamin D. Foulis, Chief of the Army Air Corps, are no more, for he has retired from active service, and the long controversy with the House Military Affairs Committee is thus brought to a welcome close for all concerned. As General Foulis leaves a sigh of relief after twenty-six years as an active flier, another man goes in to take up the burden. He is Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, who will become Acting Chief of Air Corps in September when the Foulis term comes to an end.

Those who have been in touch with Army air matters have long pointed out that General Westover was the man for the job, for he is rated as one of the outstanding officers in the Corps. The General is no swivel-chair commander, for he flies his own plane and has ratings as heavier-than-air and lighter-than-air pilot (which means both planes and dirigibles), and as an observer in both classes of aircraft.

His whole career has been connected with the Army. He was born in Michigan fifty-two years ago, and when he was eighteen he joined the Army as a private. Two years later he won an appointment to West Point and upon graduation was commissioned in the infantry. That was in 1906.

For ten years he served in this division, hitting the hard dirt and slowly advancing in rank. Then he was transferred to the Signal Corps and three years later to the aviation section of the Signal Corps.

When he was named assistant chief of the Air Corps in December, 1931, he was advanced from Lieutenant-Colonel to Brigadier General. He received his air training in the Army General Staff School, Balloon School, Service Airship School and Advanced Flying School.

An Old Favorite

To insure a good time for the young summer stay-at-home, put a seasaw out on the lawn or in the backyard. If dad is handy, he can build it himself. Otherwise, there is an inexpensive model, six and a half feet long for sale in most large department stores.

DETACHABLE

Detachable neckwear is an autumn fashion. The two sketched are of lace and net and are typical of the current neckwear trend.

Fall Reminds To Eliminate Mature Bulge

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IF YOU are past thirty fall is the time to take stock of yourself. You may succumb to the tempting coolness of the porch swing and a box of bonbons when the weather is hot, but when you see the first new fashions for autumn displayed, you begin to think of the bulges about your waistline that even a well-fitted girdle cannot control.

Here are some good, hard-working exercises that will correct the mature slump and bulges in a few weeks. But do not exhaust yourself trying to get results in a few days. Go at them slowly. If you have been ill or your health is not up to that consult your doctor before attempting to follow them.

1. Lie down on a blanket or mat on the floor, face down, arms at your side and the legs together. Bend the knees and reach back with your hands to grasp your ankles firmly. This may be difficult the first time. Now tuck back and forth with your tummy as the fulcrum.

First rock back, raising your face and chest off the floor and putting as much of your weight as you can on your thighs. Now rock forward until your chest is flat against the floor and most of your weight on your back, with your legs pulled up and back so you can keep your hold. Repeat several times. Roll over on your back and rest.

2. Still lying flat on your back on the floor, put your feet together and your arms stretched out at shoulder level. Raise your feet about six inches off the floor, letting the abdominal muscles do the work. Now slowly, move the legs in great circles over your body. Rotate from the hips, swinging your legs in a great letter "O" first to the right or clockwise, then in the opposite direction or counter-clockwise. Keep this up until you feel tired.

3. Lie on the floor flat on your back with your arms down at your sides. Bend the knees, drawing the feet under the hips so you can grasp your ankles with your hands. Now by using the abdominal muscles and those of the thighs try to raise your body off the floor, until you are in a semi-kneeling position, with your weight on the balls of your feet and your knees.

Next lower the heels to the floor and rise to a standing position. This is a difficult exercise and should be done slowly at first—once or twice the first day.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have a badly blemished skin, that doesn't improve no matter what I try. I have heard that a milk diet will help clear the skin. Is this true? If so, can you tell me what it consists of?"—Gwen.

It is true that a poorly balanced diet may be at the root of skin ailments, but a milk diet or any other diet alone will not clear your skin of blemishes. You must combine local care, outdoor exercise, and a well-balanced diet, including leafy vegetables, fresh fruits, lean meat, cereals, and milk. It might help give your overworked digestion a rest to go on a milk diet for two or three days each month, however. On those days drink four to six quarts of milk and take the juice of four oranges, with no other food. My leaflet on blackheads and acne describes in detail the local treatment. I will be glad to send it to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

QUESTION: "I find it necessary to pluck a lot of hairs to give my eyebrows a good line. The trouble is that tiny pimples form where I have removed the hairs. These are not only disfiguring for several days, but are very sensitive. How can I prevent them?"—Bella.

Always pluck the hairs in the direction in which they grow to avoid injuring the skin as much as possible, then sponge the entire brow with alcohol, or an antiseptic solution.

QUESTION: "I am a natural blonde with very light hair and a pale skin. My lashes and eyebrows are thin and light, and I need to darken them. What color mascara and eye shadow should I use?"—P. R. B.

Use a brown eyebrow pencil and mascara for darkening your lashes during the day. At night you might try the dark blue mascara and a delicately blended whiff of blue eye shadow across your upper lids.

The Right Makeup

Lips match nails in brilliant shades when youth goes out in its best. This young lady gives added chic to her quaint organza hooded dance frock by painting her lips and nails a ruby red.

Very Gay or All-black Is Style Decree

By IRENE VAIL

New York—"Very gay, or all-black," is as good a slogan as any this season. Some of the very smartest clothes are all-black, others are very dark slate gray, bottle and hunter's green, dregs of wine, plum, and colors of equal dignity and richness. But some very bright colors are used, too. There are many one-color costumes, and some with a lot of distinctive combinations, as dregs of burgundy, olive green and a dusty pink—a tricolor which has the merit of being distinctly different.

The importance of embroidery, and often metal embroidery, including nail head effects, can hardly be over-estimated. In many of them one recognizes cellophane. Some Edwardian favorites, such as jet and chenille, not to mention soutache and various other braids, are seen. Mohair braid bindings are well at the top of any list of fashionable trappings.

Among the luxurious looking fabrics launched for evening wear are some heavy brocades, another Italian Renaissance influence. Others are Hindustani, Persian, or, anyway, Far Eastern. These are usually chosen for the harem skirt ideas, which seem to be among the best of the year's.

For Egg Garnish

Eggs for a salad garnish may be sliced, or the yolks may be removed and rubbed through a strainer and the whites sliced.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "The other day I dropped in to see a friend while her family were at dinner. They were finishing the salad course and about to start the dessert. They asked me to join them; and I was very much embarrassed and refused. And once having refused, I did not change my mind, though they continued to ask me to join them. What would have been the proper thing to do under the circumstances?"—Olga P.

ANSWER: Two mistakes in etiquette occur in the situation described. When one is invited to join one's friends, the assumption is that they would be delighted to have you join them, so that in accepting he really would be giving them a measure of pleasure. Wishing to accept the hospitality of his host, a guest might say, even though he himself had just supped, "No, thank you. I couldn't eat a thing, but I might join you in a cup of coffee when it is served." So much for the unexpected guest. The host, on the other hand, should know better than continue coaxing a guest to dine with him, after receiving a refusal. Give the guest the benefit of the doubt. After all, maybe he couldn't eat a thing if he tried.

The Difference Between Jealousy and Outraged Dignity?

By MARION MAYS MARTIN

There is a distinction between jealousy and outraged dignity. The wife who brings up this point may or may not be jealous, but she certainly is outraged and not without reason, at being placed, by a selfish, thoughtless man, in a most unenviable position.

You and Your Child

Let the Baby Suck His Thumb

JANE HERBERT GOWARD

MRS. CARLTON'S three-month-old baby has developed a sucking habit. Sometimes the infant works on his thumb; at other times he pushes it into his mouth.

A baby specialist who was consulted on the matter said, "Don't pay any attention to it. But that is easier said than done. For at home mother's sister-in-law keeps buzzing her to do something about that habit; she knows someone whose little girl developed crooked teeth as the result of thumb-sucking. And then mother can see for herself how a neighbor's two-year-old has worn one thumb thin."

Mr. Carlton is inclined to agree with the physician. He tells his wife, "It is about the only pleasurable experience baby has. After all, what else is there for him to do? I wouldn't worry about it, if I were you."

Dad happens to be right. Recent findings in this field of research point out two reasons for thumb-sucking among infants. The baby may suck for his part of the food may come with a minimum of effort on his part. He may suck for comfort. He may be hungry or wet or cold or irritable, and if his ship into his mouth at a time, he finds it coming. It's a good thing to remember it.

All thumb-suckers do not develop crooked teeth or withered lips. Some children's teeth did grow in crooked whether they sucked their thumbs or not. A narrow jaw for a child, has something to do with it. Thumbs, on the other hand, generally remain misshapen so long as a child continues to suck. And unless the habit goes too far and beyond the age of five or six, the thumb usually regains its normal shape.

There isn't the slightest excuse for a woman acting as you say this woman acts. I do not blame her for trying to prevent it. No wife wants to be made ridiculous. Even granting that the woman is merely an exhibitionist and enjoys holding the center of the stage it does make a wife look silly to let by and watch her husband entangle himself.

In all probability your husband will be more considerate of your feelings in the future, and you will not need to resort to any extreme measures. He can stop playing up to the woman and get himself out of any such situations as you describe.

May Robson isn't playing a part in this picture. She doesn't care who knows it, but she likes old-fashioned jam tarts for dessert. She puts on a blob of whipped cream to top them off.

LAST RITES PENDING FOR ROGERS, AGE

the bodies will be placed carefully aboard a new plane for the flight to the States and final resting places.

All Alaska was in mourning even as the entire civilized world was stunned by the tragic air crash. Left behind in a river near Point Barrow were the shattered remains of Post's new red and silver Lockheed monoplane. It was 141 miles from the Arctic ocean, crumpled in shallow water, from whence the bodies were removed.

DARING FLIGHT

Crosson's face was drawn and he plainly showed nervous strain and fatigue of the past two days, when he landed the ship in rain early today.

"It was bad weather all the way—fog and rain," he said. "He had warned Post of the dangers of flying to Point Barrow. Crosson well knew the hazards, for he had risked his own life on many expeditions."

REMAINS SILENT

He begged he be not questioned about the wreck of Post's new plane.

"It was a disagreeable sight. It is unexplainable how it could have happened." He had flown low over the death scene en route to Point Barrow.

At the request of the widow, Mrs. American Airways, which operates the subsidiary Pacific-Alaska Airways, made arrangements to fly the bodies "all the way home."

Crosson will be in charge of the Electra transport plane that will carry Rogers' body to Los Angeles and Post's body to Oklahoma.

RETURN BODIES

Crosson flew to Point Barrow yesterday to return the bodies, regarding the very dangers he had warned Post and Rogers against before they took off from here on their ill-fated flight.

After a brief rest, the pilot, whose aerial exploits have endeared him to this far northern outpost of the United States, planned to take off for Juneau, on the coast.

An Crosson's ship roared out of the gray mist and glided down into the field, a handful of Alaskan airman and airport attendants stood silent, heads bowed.

BODIES REMOVED

An automobile hearse from a Fairbanks undertaker firm sped to the side of the plane and attendant removed the bodies which had been strapped to coifs.

The undertakers were to complete the simple embalming started by Dr. Henry Griest at Point Barrow.

Crosson seemed worn by his 500-mile journey through the night. He said the weather was unfit for flying. Twice he stopped to refuel, at Wild River Lake and at Stevens.

"Soul", Subject At Science Church

"Soul" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, August 18, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "I will set my tabernacle among you; and my soul shall not depart from you. I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people" (Lev. 26: 11, 12). Other Bible citations will include: "The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell got hold upon me. I found trouble and sorrow. Then called I upon the name of the Lord, O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul. The Lord percereth the simple: I was brought low, and he helped me. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling" (Ps. 116, 3, 4, 6, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from "Science and Health" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If it is true that man lives, this fact can never change in Science to the opposite belief that man dies. Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and Soul is never without its representative. Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can Soul, for both are immortal" (p. 427).

Empty Pens

EMPTY HOG PENS at the Chicago stockyards testify to the shortage of hogs that sent pork prices up to $2.05 a hundredweight, the highest since August, 1929. The AAA hog control program instituted by Secretary Wallace two years ago, together with effects of the drought, are held responsible for the rocketing prices.

Mint Director

MRS. NELLIE ROSS, national director of mints, is shown at the San Francisco Mint inspecting a shipment of silver coins from Indo-China. These coins were originally minted in San Francisco in 1907. Now considerably worse for wear the coins have been returned to be melted and again minted into dollars.

HUEY RAISES ROW

Another potential troublemaker is Senator Huey P. Long, Democrat, Louisiana, who is insisting that an arrangement be made for a "sweeping" victory. Stong's adjournment to consider the $2,000,000,000. Frazier-Lenke loan promise.

By making an agreement with bonus advocates to consider that issue in January, leaders saved themselves from an effort to attach a bonus rider to the tax bill.

The Guffey coal bill, now under consideration, is another problem. Its reception in the Senate is uncertain. Rumor has been spread to make an effort to bring it up, but there is so much opposition to the measure that the motion may fail.

CONFERENCES CALLED

Conferences have not started on the gold clause resolution, a possible source of further trouble.

The banking bill report was expected to slide through both houses without difficulty.

NOT SO GOOD

I join in the jubilation but my spirits have a damper cast on them by planning at another part of the "clip" sheet where I am informed that certain of these little pieces called vitamins, instead of contributing to my physical and mental health are dangerous drugs, instead of "food factors."

THE LITTLE RASCAL

Vitamin D, charmingly known as the "sunshine vitamin" apparently is a wolf in sheep's clothing, and its unrestricted use without proper supervision of a physician is "potentially dangerous." This vitamin, I discover, is "normally available through the action of sunshine on the skin and is also found in relative large amounts in butter, milk and cheese."

My emotion of fear having been aroused I am going to take a vitamin powder on Vitamin D, and see what is what under the alluring heading of "Science May Lead Ahead in Study of Sex Vitamins."

STEGALL PLEASED

Those expected to attend tomorrow's White House conference were Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrnes, Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the House ways and means committee, Chairman John J. O'Connor of the rules committee, Senate Leader Robinson, and Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate finance committee.

Chairman Harry B. Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the house banking committee, expressed satisfaction over the final form of the banking bill and predicted swift final approval.

Contracting reports that Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and his colleagues had won that an arrangement be made for a "sweeping" victory. Stong's adjournment to consider the $2,000,000,000. Frazier-Lenke loan promise.

Martinez S. Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve Board was reported as "pleased."

"An outstanding accomplishment of the legislation," Steagall said, "is to declare and emphasize the determination of the government to control the open market operations of the Federal Reserve system."

"This measure creates an open market committee of 12 members, seven of whom are members of the Federal Reserve board, and five appointed as representatives of the banks. This places control in the Federal Reserve Board. It establishes the principle of government control of open market operations of the systems."

BITTERLY opposing the New Jersey State sales tax, here is Assemblyman Theron McCampbell of Red Bank as he sold 100 pound bags of potatoes at 25 cents each, 35 cents under the farmers' price. He refused to collect a 1 cent sales tax levied by law on each bag.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 17.—Nearly 150 street car motormen and bus drivers went on strike today, paralyzing the transportation facilities of 200,000 Northern Indiana residents.

The Northern Indiana Railways and trolley operators for South Bend, Mishawaka, Elkhart and Niles, Mich., made no effort to maintain service and said the walkout might mean abandonment of the street car system.

The company has been in receivership four years.

Bachto at one time was disgraced for participating in a plot against the crown, but recently was returned to favor.

Vote Getting Is Charged To Board Workers

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—UP—Charges that 99 per cent of the employees of the State Board of Equalization were hired "because of their vote getting ability" were included in records of the State Personnel Board today.

The Personnel Board denied recommendation of 37 equalization employees into high salaried jobs, and withheld for Equalization Board members to appoint four deputies exempt from Civil Service.
